A recent study has shown significant regional variation in the incidence of various serious lung ailments. These ailments are most common in areas with high atmospheric levels of particulates, microscopic fragments that come from sources that include mobile engines and smoke from wood-burning stoves. This correlation provides support for a widely held hypothesis that particulates in the atmosphere are a major cause of lung ailments.

Which of the following, if true, would most strongly support the hypothesis?

With proper maintenance of automobiles and wood-burning stoves, particulate emissions could be substantially reduced.

The chemical composition of atmospheric particulates varies depending on the source of the emissions.

Dear support@PassPsychometric.com

On behalf of the CAIA Association, let me be the first to congratulate you on passing your CAIA examination.

Below is a performance profile developed for you to aid in self-assessment by indicating your areas of relative strength and weakness compared to a reference group. The reference group is composed of candidates who scored within the bottom quartile of those who passed the exam in this administration. To create your profile, your performance by topic was compared to the reference group and was categorized into relative performance levels to reflect the distance between your performance and that of candidates in the reference group. More information on how to interpret this Candidate Performance Report is available within the Guidelines for Interpreting Your CAIA Exam Performance Report.

User ID: [redacted]
 Level 1 Exam
 Fall 2023
Result: Pass
Percent Who Passed*: 48%

*The percentage of candidates who sat for this exam in this cycle who were successful in passing.

This relative performance profile is provided for your reference only. Examinations are analyzed by candidate number only, and all results are kept confidential. Candidates' actual scores are not released.

Note that your exam outcome is determined by your performance on each examination rather than by your overall score.

Examination Topic (Weights)	Relative Performance Level
	Weakest	Lower	Borderline	Higher	Strongest
Hedge Funds (11% - 17%)				✓
Introduction to Alternative Investments (20% - 28%)					✓
Private Securities (12% - 20%)				✓
Professional Standards and Ethics (11% - 17%)					✓
Real Assets (11% - 17%)			✓
Structured Products (10% - 14%)				✓

**Relative performance levels are based on the average score and the standard deviation of the scores of the reference group described above. For example, "Borderline" means that your score in that topic was within 0.5 standard deviations of the average score of the reference group. For more information on the determination of these performance levels, see the CAIA Candidate Handbook.

Writing Section Directions

Make sure you hear the directions carefully.

This section tests your ability to use writing to communicate in an academic environment. You will complete two writing tasks.

For the first writing task, you will read a passage and listen to a lecture and then write an essay based on what you have read and heard. For the second writing task, you will answer a question based on your own knowledge and experience.

Now listen to the directions for the first writing task.

Select Continue at any time to dismiss these directions.

Writing Based on Knowledge and Experience Directions

For this task, you will write an essay in response to a question that asks you to support your opinion on an issue. A clock that is provided during the test will show how much time you have to write and revise your essay.

Typically, an effective essay will contain a minimum of three paragraphs. Your essay will be judged on the quality of your writing. This includes the development of your ideas, the organization of your essay, and the quality and accuracy of the language you use to express your ideas.

- Use specific reasons and examples to support your response.
- Be clear and concise in your writing. Do not use memorized reasons or examples.
- Responses that include memorized text will receive a lower score.

If you finish your essay before time is up, you may select Next to go on.

Select Continue to go on.

Writing

Writing Based on Reading and Listening Questions

For this task, you will read a passage about an academic topic. At the top of the screen will show how much time you have to read. You may take notes on the passage. After the reading time ends, the passage will then be removed and you will listen to a lecture about the same topic. While you listen, you may take notes.

Then you will write a response that asks you about the relationship between the lecture you heard and the reading passage. Try to answer the question as completely as possible using information from the reading passage and the lecture. The question may ask you to express your personal opinion. You will be able to see the reading passage again when it is time for you to write your response. You may use your notes to help you answer the question. A clock at the top of the screen will show how much time you have to write your response.

Typically, an effective response will be 150 to 225 words. You will be graded on the quality of your writing and on the completeness and accuracy of the content. If you finish your response before time is up, you may click on Next to go on to the second writing task.

Now you will see the reading passage. The lecture will be available to you again when you write your response. Immediately after the reading time ends, the lecture will begin, so keep your headphones on until the lecture is over.

(Select Continue at any time to dismiss these directions.)
